Dad blasted with sawn-off shotgun after text threats, court is told

Trial hears shot man 'lured' to meeting

By Conor Gogarty
conor.gogarty@essexlive.news

A HARLOW man "lured" a father to a meeting then shot him with a stolen shotgun, a court heard.

Shea Kenny, 26, of Abbeydale Close, denies the attack on Sam Weaver, which took place at 12pm in Willowfield, Harlow, on August 30, 2015. Prosecutor Ramiz Gursoy told Chelmsford Crown Court that Kenny sent threatening texts to Mr Weaver, 25, and "lured" him to a meeting point, before shooting him in the arm with a sawn-off shotgun which was stolen in Spain in 2004.

Lies

But John Cammehgh, mitigating, called the account of Mr Weaver's father, Jason, a "bag of lies".

Mr Cammehgh instead alleged the gun was not brought to the scene by Kenny, but by Sam Weaver's brother Billy in a bid to frighten the defendant and "mount an ambush".

He also claimed the meeting was set up as a drug deal, both allegations which Jason denied as he gave evidence on Tuesday.

When asked whether Sam sold drugs in the summer of 2015, Jason said: "I don't know."

Jason suggested to the court that he, Sam, his then two-year-old son and Billy had been going to meet Sam's friend Ross in a tower block on Willowfield at noon.

Mr Gursoy said: "After dropping Sam off, Jason noticed a silver BMW. He saw Sam talking to someone but didn't hear what was said."

Bang

"The next thing he heard was shouting and a loud bang. Billy ran out followed by Jason."

"When they approached Sam, he said: 'He has shot me. He has  shot me.'"

"Billy managed to pull Mr Kenny out of the front passenger window. There was a struggle and Billy retrieved the gun."

Sam sustained a bullet wound to his arm in the alleged incident, as well as burns between his finger and thumb.

Mr Gursoy added that the family then drove to the house of Jason's other son Joe, 26, before putting the gun in a bathtub and

Characters leap off page as schools bring stories to life

STAFF and pupils at schools across Harlow dressed up as some of their favourite fictional characters in celebration of the 20th World Book Day last Thursday.

At Cooks Spinney Primary School, pupils focused on a Roald Dahl theme following on from his 100th birthday last year, while pupils at Freshwaters Primary Academy were inspired to dress up as crayons based on a book they have been reading, The Day the Crayons Quit by Drew Daywalt.

Children at Little Parndon Primary School also joined in the celebrations with the likes of Paddington Bear, the Gruffalo, the Incredible Hulk and Harry Potter all making an appearance.

All three primary schools are part of the seven that form the Burnt Mill Academy trust.

Pupils at St Nicolas School in Hobbs Cross Road also dressed up as a variety of characters.

Head teacher David Bown said: "We had a lot of fun at the school on World Book Day and it was great to see pupils and staff dressed up as their favourite literary characters."

"From Fantastic Mr Fox and Hermione Granger to Paddington Bear and Goldilocks, the characters were wide-ranging and the costumes were great."

He added: "Encouraging children to read and share stories is such an important learning experience and I'm sure bedtime reading has undergone a boost this week, which is great to see."

Children at Blossoms Nursery also joined in the fun.

Manager Emma Houghton said: "The children all enjoyed bringing in their favourite stories to share with their carers and friends. We celebrated stories from around the world and liked to dress up as our favourite book characters."

Children in the foundation stage and Key Stage 1 at Henry Moore Primary School also joined in. A costume parade in which book tokens were given to the winners. One from each class across the entire school was selected as a winner for the most inventive costume.

Tanyll Dell Primary School, Longwood Academy and Church Langley Primary School also joined in. A spokesman for Church Langley Primary School said: "Children throughout the school were encouraged to dress as a character from a book first published in the past 20 years."

"Harry Potters and Hermione Grangers arrived in their droves, alongside the Gruffalo, witches and Harry with his many dinosaurs, to name but a few."

Recognition

"A number of children were awarded certificates in recognition of their progress in reading and during the afternoon all classes participated in a story change, as teachers swapped key stages to read a book of their choice to children they do not usually teach."

At Fawbert and Barnard's Primary School, each class chose their own book to read as a group and then decorated their classroom door to match.

They also took part in class swaps and reading with a buddy from another class.

World Book Day is recognised in more than 100 countries.

It takes place every year and celebrates authors, illustrators, books and, most importantly, strives to promote reading in young children.

Dad blasted by shotgun, court told driving to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Armed police arrested Jason, Sam and Billy there, while Kenny was arrested after driving to a friend's house. Photographs shown to the jury suggested that Kenny had been wearing gloves immediately after the shooting.

"He was wearing the gloves so as not to leave fingerprints on the gun," Mr Gursay said.

Defending Kenny, Mr Cammeh tried to shift the blame on to the Weavers, questioning their motive for being at the scene.

He told Jason: "You have made up the friend, Ross, because you needed to provide police a reason for being there. None of you had any intention of calling the police. You were hoping this was all going to go away."

Treatment

Jason, who was unable to give a surname for Ross, replied: "Getting my son treatment was my priority."

Mr Cammeh then asked why Jason did not drive Sam straight to hospital, to which he replied: "It was sheer panic."

The defence lawyer alleged that Jason stamped on Kenny, wiped the gun of fingerprints at Joe's house and hid it in the bath to stop police finding it, which he denied.

Kenny denies possessing a shotgun with intent to endanger life and wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm.

MAKING A STAND: Members of Harlow Stand Up to Racism

Determined to fight back against a culture of hate

Anti-racism rally before national march

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

ANTI-RACISM campaigners vowed to challenge a "poisonous atmosphere in society" at a rally in Harlow.

Five speakers shared a message of unity to a crowd of 60 at St Paul's Church in Harlow last Thursday, March 2, in a meeting organised by pressure group Harlow Stand Up to Racism.

Adam Cochrane, chief organiser, considered it essential to spread the word ahead of a national demonstration on Saturday, March 18.

Momentous

He said: "We want to build a movement. It is a momentous task as there is a poisonous atmosphere."

"Nigel Farage's views have been normalised and we have to build a movement to challenge that."

"I am really pleased with the turnout. I believe the majority of people want to live in harmony."

Harlow Stand Up to Racism has organised a coach to pick up Harlow residents and drive to the demonstration in London.

The Star recently reported a rise in hate crimes committed in the period after the European Union referendum, but Mr Cochrane said he did not consider the town a hotbed of racial unrest.

"I do not think this says something about the town," he said.

"I think this comes from the top of society."

"We have got people in our movement who voted to leave and to remain."

He added: "There is a disgusting atmosphere now in society, it opens the door for the racism of the past to come back in."

"We have to make a stand and say no more."

Five panel members took a few minutes to speak before the audience members were given the opportunity to ask questions or comment.

Murray Sackwild, Essex National Union of Teachers secretary general, said: "Over the last couple of years a dark cloud has come across us."

"People are now starting to keep away."

"Last year stands out as a watershed moment."

"Those who hate now feel empowered. This is now seeping into schools."

"We need to turn back this tide. We need to stand up and fight back."

Riccardo la Torre, Fire Brigade Union eastern region secretary, said: "This is more important than ever before."

Verbal abuse

"One in ten [foreign nationals] can expect to be a victim of verbal abuse every year."

"I believe we have to understand the motives behind the hate. We have to challenge this rhetoric."

"It only stands to get worse unless we resist and we can do that when we are together."

He added: "Men in suits have caused us more anguish than refugees ever have."

The audience also heard from Harlow councillor Mike Danvers and town student Yazz James.

Driver still recovering in hospital in wake of smash which closed road

A DRIVER involved in a serious crash in Fifth Avenue, Harlow, is still in hospital with serious injuries nearly a week later.

Two cars were involved in the incident near the town centre around midnight last Thursday, March 2, which closed the road for an extended period.

A Ford Focus estate and a Volvo saloon were heavily damaged by the impact.

Essex Police confirmed yesterday (Wednesday) that the driver of the Focus was still being treated.

Arrested

A 24-year-old man from Harlow has been arrested on suspicion of causing serious injury by dangerous driving and has been released on bail.

In the aftermath of the crash witness Katherine Wang, resident of Gladwin Way, Harlow, said: "I was the third or fourth on the scene and ominously no sound was coming from either of the cars other than the engines still running."

"My neighbour advised there was petrol all over the road."

Book festival can show we're not poles apart...

Hopes literary event can heal divisions in wake of high-profile death

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AUTHORS are hoping a cultural event will build Harlow-Polish bonds six months after the tragic death of Arkadiusz Jozwik.

Sarah Perry, writer of The Essex Serpent and After the Flood, is heading up Meet the Neighbours on Saturday, March 18 in Harlow Central Library in Cross Street as part of Essex Book Festival. She will chat with Essex-based Polish poet Wioletta Greg, her compatriot Aga Lesiewicz will talk to Karola Gajda while workshops and performances for families will be held.

Ros Green, festival director, said: "It is to represent how everyone in Harlow is one community, to counteract that image of conflict."

"It is really exciting Harlow is celebrating its 70th birthday. My reaction was to do something Polish and the Harlow arts community has really got around us."

Rebuild confidence

"We want to create a positive celebration and rebuild confidence in the community."

Polish national Mr Jozwik, a 40-year-old uncle, died after an incident in The Stow, Harlow, last August, prompting negative coverage of the town in the national media.

Ms Greg is hoping Meet the Neighbours will restore a happier understanding of immigration into the UK and build bridges between Harlow residents and foreign neighbours.

She said: "As Harlow celebrates its 70th birthday, we are reminded that 1947 was also the year of the Polish Resettlement Act that allowed Poles displaced in the war to seek asylum in Britain."

"Seventy years on Britain is the chosen homeland for Poles from many generations and walks of life, from the descendants of those 200,000 who settled here in 1947, to the most recent arrivals."

"Meet the Neighbours Day is an incredibly important event. It makes the Polish community feel more integrated and understood."

"It also gives us a chance to share our stories, literature, art and crafts, and, of course, our famous Polish cheesecake, with our English neighbours."

Meet the Neighbours begins at 11.45am and also features writer Maryla Szymczakowa in conversation with Nicci French. Polish ambassador Arkady Rzegocki is also expected to come.

Throughout March a mural designed by Polish street artist Jola Kudela, featuring portraits of Harlow residents, will hang on buildings around the town.

Ms Kudela, 46, who lives in London, said: "What happened in Harlow last year was a terrible tragedy. Unfortunately it tapped into the general post-Brexit hysteria, and in some way, against the will of the people of Harlow, it was interpreted by the media as a symbol of the mood in the UK."

"I want to confront the situation and send a general message of peace to the world. I want to say to everyone that we are all equal and we are all in the same boat."

"We are all just travellers through life and in ten, 20, or 50 years from now we won't be here any more. So let's make the best of our time here and be happy. I invite the people of Harlow to join me in the message."

■ Tickets are limited for Meet the Neighbours and residents are advised to email hello@essexbookfestival.org.uk as soon as possible. Entry is free.

'Wonderful asset' marina village goes on sale for £10.75 million

Refurbished facility with 315 berths, lodges and a motel has good transport links

By Narbeh Minassian

narbeh.minassian@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ROYDON Marina Village is on sale and could be yours – if you can fork out £10.75 million.

The area has been steadily refurbished over the past decade and was turned into a marina – which was developed in 2010 from part of a former water sports lake – with 315 berths, which are joined to the River Stort via a new lock.

Nearly £9 million has been invested in the complex by the vendors to construct lodges for holiday-makers, expand the motel to 28 rooms and design the marina.

Potential

John Anderson, consultant for GVA Retail Hotels and Leisure, which is an agent for the marina's sale, believes the plot has potential to significantly benefit Roydon.

He said: "This is a wonderful asset and a significant amount of money has been invested into it, which has brought visitors to the area and will attract businesses and further investment."

"I think its location near the A10 and M25 and its beautiful

PLAIN SAILING: Roydon Marina Village was developed in 2010 from part of a former water sports lake setting make it a perfect place for tourists, for day-trippers and a good opportunity for the town.

"It is also adjacent to Roydon Railway Station, which can take you straight to central London, and this means people can come and go without having to drive and worry about parking.

"Investors will also be interested in the various income streams the marina has, including the privately owned lodges and the motel."

The vendors bought the property in 2007 but are now taking their investment elsewhere.

The complex has 41 residential park home pitches, all privately owned, 18 serviced caravans, an

There is planning permission for a maintenance workshop, yard and hoist to be located near to the marina clubhouse, which has not been implemented.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS: HTS launches in Harlow

New contract is chance for our town to shine...

Council-run firm takes over Kier duties

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE cleanliness and appearance of Harlow is the biggest challenge facing the town's new maintenance firm, according to its boss.

Harlow Council-run HTS Property and Environment has now been overseeing council housing repairs, street cleaning, grass cutting and pest control for a month, taking over from Kier Harlow.

John Phillips, managing director of HTS, said the firm is looking to provide a resident-focused service which thrives in duties for which Kier was sometimes maligned by consumers.

Complaint

He said: "We were established at the beginning of February and in terms of service we have only had one relevant complaint about service, which we have resolved.

"In [a similar number of] actions Kier got 15-20 complaints.

"I do not think we are doing anything different. My take is that we have transferred 313 people into HTS and they say to themselves they are local people committed to working for a local company."

HTS is funded from within

existing council budgets, but the change in contracts means that Harlow Council can keep any profits for future investment.

The Star heard complaints from several residents that Kier had been slow to address some issues. Mr Phillips, who was previously Kier operations director, said HTS was focused on improvement. He said: "I think some of the biggest issues are around the cleanliness of the town. Issues such as flytipping and making sure we empty the bins.

"The number of calls about that is pretty low but we understand the look of the town is very important and it is a priority. That is one area we need to push and keep on top of. I am pleased to see it looks like we are doing that."

Mr Phillips said grass cutting, another issue for which Kier came under fire, was about to begin and HTS had invested in some new equipment.

Overseen

HTS is overseen by a board of directors consisting of Mr Phillips himself, Michael Harrowven, Alex Morris and three Harlow councillors: Simon Carter, Bob Davis and John Strachan.

The firm has also pledged to support Hastingwood-based charity St Clare Hospice.

Despite the presence of councillors on the board, the managing director said scrutiny will not be a problem. Mr Phillips said: "I think the reason the councillors are on board is to hold to us account. They are robust in challenging our team."

He added: "We have done a lot of work with Kier and they have been co-operative with us. In the last week of Kier they were taking orders for our work. We made sure there was a good transfer."

"Customers are ringing the same telephone numbers as before.

"We are a local business serving local people."

Pair arrested over suspected shoplifting

BAGGED: The items recovered by Essex Police Sergeant Greg Jurkiewicz

TWO women have been arrested after a suspected theft from a shop in the Queensgate Centre, Edinburgh Way, Harlow.

Two people were reportedly seen placing items into bags and leaving, making no attempt to pay for them on Tuesday, February 28 at 5.05pm.

Tweet

Harlow policeman Sergeant Greg Jurkiewicz said in a tweet that £3,000 worth of goods had been taken. He posted a picture of recovered clothing in plastic bags.

A 43-year-old woman from Wembley was arrested on suspicion of theft and a 45-year-old woman from London was arrested on suspicion of theft and on suspicion of assault.

They were both taken to Harlow police station for questioning. They have since both been released on bail until Monday, March 20.

Resident's petition to prevent horse cruelty signed by 4,200

Man feels authorities should do more for welfare of animals living on common

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MORE than 4,000 people have signed a petition demanding action to stop 'cruelty' to horses tethered on Harlow land.

Animals running loose in the town is not a new sight, but Newhall resident Peter Bailey has had enough of seeing animals kept in such conditions.

The 46-year-old, who started the petition, said: "Many horses on Harlow Common are not looking very well.

"They are forced to sleep in churned up mud.

Knocked

"They are lucky to have water as their buckets are knocked over. They have no health checks and no shelter from the bitter winds and heavy rain.

"Harlow people don't want cruelty to these wonderful animals."

It is unclear who owns the horses. Essex Police officers frequently post reports of having seen them walking into roads, but when approached by the Star, the force said it was not their responsibility.

Mr Bailey was overwhelmed

TAKING ISSUE: A petition has started about horses in Harlow that hundreds of people signed the petition within hours of it being started on change.org web page.

It currently has more than 4,200 signatures.

A spokesman from the RSPCA said: "The RSPCA shares concerns about the horses kept on Harlow Common.

"While the RSPCA has serious concerns about tethering, it is not against the law and we can only enforce guidelines on tethering such as pregnant mares, or those with foals at foot."

Mr Bailey feels authorities could be doing more and is now organising a public meeting for residents to discuss the problem

He said: "I have never done it (taken action) before. I took my dog for a walk and there were a couple of horses on the road. I raised it on Facebook.

"People have lots of ideas but no-one ever seems to do anything about it.

"A couple of people said to start a petition and get something going. It has raised the profile of it. I think the RSPCA now realises there are a lot of people concerned.

"I think what needs to happen now is that we have a grown-up conversation about it. I cannot hold anybody responsible.

FEELING HORSE: Animals running wild in Harlow is a talking point

"People say Harlow is renowned for this. But nobody has ever dealt with it."

He added: "We are going to get a meeting together and I hope to get this onto the agenda at Harlow Council."

For updates about the petition visit: https://www.change.org/p/rspca-harlow-council-stop-the-

Police step up patrols to catch drivers on phones

Blitz follows introduction of new penalties

By Piers Meyler
piers.meyler@essexlive.news

DRIVERS using mobile phones behind the wheel are being targeted now that stiffer penalties have come into force.

Since the start of the month, people caught using their mobile phones while driving have been incurring more serious penalties – a £200 fine and six penalty points on a driving licence.

To mark this, Essex Police launched a week of targeted action, which ended yesterday (Tuesday), to catch offenders in the act across the county.

Adam Pipe, casualty reduction manager for Essex Police, said: "The new penalties which came into place on March 1 are a strong deterrent for those who still believe – despite the obvious seriousness of the offence – that using a mobile phone is acceptable behaviour on our roads.

Distracted

"Irrevocable and fatal mistakes are made when mobile phones are used at the wheel and also when people allow themselves to be distracted.

"It may seem like a simple, even innocent act to send a text message or take a glance at your smartphone screen, but there is a very real chance this could lead to devastation for you, or someone else. There is no excuse for recklessness in the driver's seat.

"Do not be a selfish road user, we have no sympathy for those who put others at risk and we will punish those we catch doing so by using the full extent of our powers."

Mobile patrols and static road checks operated in areas including Brentwood and Maldon. Officers also dedicated one day to targeting HGV drivers.

Hundreds seek work at airport jobs fair

MORE than 1,200 jobs seekers gathered at Harlow's Civic Centre for the Stansted Airport jobs fair last Tuesday (February 28).

The event, which was a first for the town, was officially opened by the chairman of Harlow Council, Edna Stevens, and councillor Tony Durcan, who is the portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise.

Showcase

Almost 40 airport companies, representing airlines, retailers, restaurants, hotels and transport providers attended the showcase which had almost 400 full time and part time positions on offer.

Marcella M'Rabety, Stansted's corporate social responsibility manager, said: "Stansted Airport is already the biggest single employment site in the East of England and home to over 12,000 workers.

"But with passenger numbers set to top 25 million passengers this summer, new airlines like Jet2 arriving later this month and ambitious plans for a new £130 million arrivals building recently unveiled, hundreds more new jobs and long term careers are being created to cater for growing passenger numbers." Councillor Tony Durcan added: "The event is being supported and hosted by the council as having a major international airport within easy reach of Harlow can provide hundreds of different career opportunities for local people. We want local residents to be aware that there is help available with discounted travel and encourage them to consider a career working at the airport."

OPPORTUNITY: The event was opened by Edna Stevens and Tony Durcan

Meningitis girl's multi-million pound compensation wrangle

Family's bid to overturn previous judges' verdict that the hospital was blameless

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

THE family of a disabled teenager with irreversible brain damage are re-launching their bid for multi-million pound compensation from Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital (PAH).

In 2003, the girl, who cannot be named for legal reasons, was rushed to the infirmary in Hamstel Road after she contracted bacterial meningitis.

But although she was seen by her parents staring into space with her eyes rolling, the girl was sent home and, by the time medics discovered the bug, it was too late.

The girl is deaf and stricken by learning difficulties, which prompted her family to seek compensation from a GP and PAH.

'Trivial'

The family's lawyer said the doctor who saw the girl described a "trivial illness" on her arrival at the hospital.

High Court Judge Mr Justice Jay rejected a bid in 2015, but the girl's legal team fought to reopen Trust. The case was heard in the Court of Appeal last Wednesday, March 1. The claimants are seeking to convince the four judges to overturn their verdict that the hospital is blameless.

Elizabeth-Anne Gumbel QC, the family's barrister, argued that failings by an accident and emergency doctor were to blame for the youngster's injuries.

Convulsion

She said that a doctor failed to ask sufficient questions about the girl's history and did not know she had been seen to have a convulsion.

The QC said the correct course of action would have been to find out more about her symptoms and then refer her to paediatricians.

Miss Gumbel told the court: "With full information about why she was at hospital at that time, the doctor would have offered different treatment, which would have averted the disaster.

"The disaster unfolded because she did not have that information."

Lawyers for PAH are contesting the appeal and judgement will be given at a later date.

Pervert had images to 'suppress paedophilia'

A HARLOW man has admitted downloading hundreds of indecent child images and one showing sex with a German shepherd dog.

Mihaly Toth, 31 and of Miles Close, pleaded guilty to five counts of downloading illegal images at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court on Tuesday.

The pervert, who held the material between December 24, 2014, and January 15 this year, told police he was looking at the images "to suppress his paedophilia".

Of the 358 pictures downloaded, 288 fell into category A, the most serious classification for indecent images of children.

There were 53 images in category B, 15 in category C, one prohibited image and one extreme pornographic image. They were split across 35 pieces of equipment, which will all now be destroyed.

Prosecutor Philip Pearson said: "On May 14 last year, police attended an address which is a multiple occupancy building.

Significant

"Mr Toth was present and spoken to. They said they had information someone was downloading images of children. He immediately admitted he was responsible and made significant interview admissions."

The case was adjourned to be heard at Chelmsford Crown Court within the week commencing April 4.

Toth was ordered to report to Harlow police station every Monday until then.

He was also barred from unsupervised contact with children.

DISCOVERY: Mike Jury said he found historic pottery in a field in Eastwick

'Keep 10,000 homes off this historic land'

Fears that treasures will remain buried

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN AMATEUR archaeologist is worried the proposed 10,000-home Gilston Park Estate development near Harlow could prevent future finds.

Mike Jury, of Mark Hall, Harlow, claims to have found historic pottery in a field near St Botolph Church in Eastwick and fears sites like this are at risk.

Housing association Places for People has government backing for a proposal to build 10,000 homes on land around Eastwick, Gilston and Hunsdon.

While the status of his finds has not been verified, Mr Jury says they could be from a Roman settlement and fears artefacts could be buried for many more years.

Mr Jury said: "The land is of great historical value. How much will Harlow expand and how much will it affect the historical importance of Gilston?"

"I do not think people are aware of how important the village is in terms of archaeology. I am not opposed to building in the town itself. But when you take over (green land) you come across issues. They (Places for People) are probably not aware of it."

Mr Jury, a retired council worker, said he has made other discoveries in his Harlow allotment but the significance of his findings have not been verified.

Gilston Park Estate is still the subject of a consultation exercise.

Last year the Government pledged support for garden towns to be built around the country, one of which would be to the north of Harlow and near Eastwick.

Importance

A spokesman for Places for People said: "We recognise the importance of protecting our country's history when planning for the future."

"Our proposals have been designed, where possible, to not only protect but also enhance local heritage and we have undertaken extensive surveys and assessments in relation to Gilston Park Estate."

"Specifically in relation to Eastwick, we are aware of the archaeological areas within its curtilage and south of the village."

"Our proposals seek to preserve this character by focusing development outside of this area on nearby agricultural land."

Surge in hate crime since Brexit vote

RACIALLY and religiously motivated hate crime has doubled in Essex since the Brexit referendum, according to the latest Home Office figures.

There were 32 incidents in Harlow from July to September 2016, a steep rise from 13 the year before, while for Essex figures rose from 187 to 376.

Countywide, the hate crimes included 26 cases of assault with injury, 58 of assault without injury, 29 cases of criminal damage, 20 of harassment and 243 cases of public fear, alarm or distress.

Councillor Jon Clempner, leader of Harlow Council, said: "For most people Harlow remains a safe place to live, work and visit and a place where people get along."

"We continue to work with Essex Police and our partners to ensure that remains the case."

An Essex Police spokesman said the force remains committed to tackling hate crime of all kinds.

Unit helped son born eight weeks early

By Charlotte Page

A WOMAN from Bishop's Stortford is preparing for a charity skydive after her son was born eight weeks early.

Megan Dittrich, 23, will raise money for the Neonatal Unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital after her son, Ethan, now four, received care there after he was born prematurely at 32 weeks.

TINY: Ethan was born prematurely at just 32 weeks

Support
She said: "He stayed in there for two and half weeks and I want to support them with getting new equipment and new facilities. He wouldn't be here without their help and medical knowledge."

She continued: "I count my lucky blessings that Ethan is one hundred per cent healthy and happy as I know it's not always the way."

"I am very lucky Ethan was only in there for just under three weeks but many families spend months there and I know they are incredibly grateful when people help them by fundraising and donating goods."

Looking ahead to the event at the North London Skydive Centre on Wednesday, April 12, Miss Dittrich said: "I'm very anxious about it, but it's something I've always wanted to do so the excitement is building."

Miss Dittrich, who works in the private escape lounge Delaware North at Stansted Airport, has set a target of raising £600 for NICU and is already more than half way to that goal on her JustGiving page.

She continued: "I want to say thank you to everyone who has donated so far it means so much to me and my family that people have donated and supported a cause so close to our hearts."

■ POLITICS

Pressure is on local councils

TO CLAIM that Harlow is the best town in the country is, perhaps, a little over the top – politician's hype – and Harlow Council should certainly not be immune from criticism.

But the sweeping generalisations of your anonymous correspondent (Why not work for the people? Letters, March 2) are very ill-informed, to say the least.

He (I am fairly sure it is a he) does not understand the pressures that local government everywhere has been under for a number of years, and that even Conservative councils have complained about.

It was not Harlow Council that privatised many of the New Town's assets when the Development Corporation was wound up.

One result of which is the lack of control by the council of developments in the town centre.

It was not Harlow Council that opened the floodgates for globalisation, which led to the loss of so much of the industry on which Harlow's early prosperity was based.

It was successive governments that cut, and continue to cut, Harlow's grants, which make up a large proportion of the council's income.

In the light of this, what magic wand does he have to conjure upgraded public services with no council tax rises?

It is not the council that drops litter or commits vandalism, which, sadly, do affect the appearance of the town.

But does Mr Anonymous do anything about this? Does he ever pick up litter, or reprimand the perpetrators, as I sometimes do? What does he do to contribute to the improvement of the town, other than writing letters decrying it?

Does he make use of the Playhouse, the Leisurezone, the Town Park, Pets' Corner, the numerous clubs and groups of all kinds, which falsify his negative image of the town?

As for a "group run by members of the public", what does he think councillors are, other than public-spirited citizens who devote a great deal of time to trying to do just what he is asking for?

And they are, of course, accountable to the public when they stand for re-election.

■ HEALTH

Working well to ensure safety

I WOULD line to say well done to the police last night (March 1) and the managers of the Wetherspoon in Harlow.

Me and my mate were sitting down having a drink in when all of a sudden a lady came and sat with us.

Being care workers, we had suspicions that she needed assistance.

I went up to the managers and advised them what she told us and he got in touch with the police.

The police were very efficient at assisting the lady that needed help.

So well done to the manger of the Wetherspoon in Harlow and the police for working together as a team along with me and my colleague so this lady was kept safe.

I hope the lady got back to Ongar safely.

Cllr Dan Long

Grateful to all who gave help

I WOULD like to say thank you to a young man called Ben, two ladies and the medics who assisted me when I collapsed at a bus stop near Tye Green on Wednesday March 1.

■ REFERENDUM

Questions for the remainers

YOUR letters column contained another whining complaint about the result of the referendum (The result is still not clear, March 2).

Instead of clutching at the straws of foreigner's rights in this country and the so-called dictatorship of the majority, could we hear from the "remainers" their answers to the following:

Do they wish to govern themselves in a democratic system, or do they wish to live under fascism and have no say in the laws they would have to obey?

Are they unconcerned about the rampant corruption in the EU which is now out of control and virtually endemic? Why do they long for laws made in secret and which cannot be challenged prior to or after they come into being (The Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership in particular).

Are they happy that multinational corporations would be able to sue national governments for loss of profits?

Are they happy about the changing of our national characteristics by uncontrolled immigration?

Do they think our inability to deport foreign criminals including murderers, rapists and paedophiles is a positive change? Why they like a Court of Justice which not a Court of Justice at all, but simply there to promote the EU?

What do they think about the spiteful and vindictive reaction to our referendum result by many EU ministers, and the fact that those ministers feel our decision is "punishable"?

There are also many other questions that the remainers coalition.

British-made Saudi aircraft are dropping British-made bombs on homes, hospitals, and even a refugee camp.

Some of these bombs are cluster bombs, the use of which is prohibited by an international agreement to which the United Kingdom is a party.

The deliberate starvation of civilian populations, indiscriminate bombing, and the use of cluster bombs are all war crimes.

It is shameful that the British government enables these crimes, and that the Member of Parliament for Harlow defends the perpetrators.

I am sure that most people in Harlow would prefer Robert Halfon to condemn the bombing and starving of innocent civilians and promote the negotiation of a peaceful resolution of the disagreements underlying the civil war in Yemen.

PAST TIMES

MARION McMULLEN goes ape for Hollywood creature features of days gone by as new movie Kong: Skull Island lands in cinemas

MOVIE star Fay Wray thought she would be working alongside Cary Grant or Clark Gable when she was told "You'll have the tallest, darkest leading man in Hollywood."

Instead she found herself co-starring along King Kong and screaming her head off as the giant ape clambered up New York's Empire State Building with her firmly in his grasp.

It led to the Canadian actress being dubbed the Queen of Scream and she later said: "At the premiere of King Kong I wasn't too impressed. I thought there was too much screaming. I didn't realize then that King Kong and I were going to be together for the rest of our lives, and longer..."

The publicity for the 1933 black and white movie called it "a thundering box office giant! His footsteps thundering a reborn showmanship."

The bellowing giant the cinema audiences saw on the screen was in reality a model that stood around 18 inches tall and was made of rubber and Latex with rabbit fur for hair.

A little movie magic helped turn King Kong into a monster figure on the screen and the film became one of the biggest box office hit of its era.

It sparked a spate of gorilla movies including spin-offs beginning with Son Of Kong, later that same year, and even a monster clash in 1962 with King Kong vs Godzilla.

Even the Marx Brothers went a little ape in their 1939 comedy At The Circus, and Groucho Marx used to tell the story of how the stunt man poked ventilation holes in the suit and upset the owner with the producers having to rent an orangutan outfit to finish the film. The man in the gorilla suit was actually a performer called Charles Gemora who made his own hairy costume specially for the movie.

Bela Lugosi managed to turn himself into a hairy hybrid playing a meddling mad scientist in Ape Man in 1949 with the publicity posters warning: "No one is safe from the cruel desires of this inhuman fiend!"

Mighty Joe Young, also 1949, featured a giant gorilla as a family pet. Life on the farm was idyllic until the bright lights of Hollywood beckoned and Joe Young was put on the stage with disastrous results.

The first scream in the movie is actually that of Fay Wray from the original King Kong movie. Charlize Theron and Bill Paxton later starred in a Disney remake of the film in 1998.

Phantom Of The Rue Morgue back in 1954 saw police baffled by a strange killer. The horror movie was based on a tale by Edgar Allan Poe and featured gorilla performer Charles Gemora once more as Sultan the ape. It was his final gorilla role and Patricia Medina and Karl Malden headed the human cast. The 1950s also saw Bride Of The Gorilla and Bela Lugosi Meets A Brooklyn Gorilla.

Konga in 1961 was another creature feature. It starred Michael Gough as a scientist whose experiments turn a chimpanzee into a monster that attacks London.

But ape movies took a new twist with Planet Of The Apes. In the 1968 blockbuster Charlton Heston played the astronaut who ended up in a world in which humans were the dumb animals and apes the master race.

The movie was so successful it led to several more films in the franchise as well as a TV series. The story was tackled by director Tim Burton in 2001 then rebooted for Rise Of The Planet Of The Apes in 2011 with British actor Andy Serkis, best known as Gollum in Lord Of The Rings, as the rebel ape leader Caesar. Dawn of the Planet of the Apes (2014) followed and he third chapter, War For The Planet Of The Apes, comes out on July 14.

King Kong though remains the ultimate star of the ape movie genre and there have been several remakes over the years with Jessica Lange in the 1976 version and Naomi Watts in the 2005 movie.

The latest incarnation Kong: Skull Island starring Brie Larson, Tom Hiddleston, and Samuel L Jackson is released this week.

"It was beauty killed the beast," remains one of the most famous last lines of any movie and Fay Wray once said: "Every time I'm in New York, I say a little prayer when passing the Empire State Building. A good friend of mine died up there."

FILM REVIEWS

With Damon Smith

Kong gone wrong

Mankind tumbles several links down the food chain in Kong: Skull Island, a rollicking 1970s-set action adventure directed by Jordan Vogt-Roberts, which revives one of cinema's iconic monsters.

Unfolding predominately on a Pacific island where "God did not finish creation", the picture unleashes a menagerie of hulking beasts as well as the titular ape and contrives a series of digitally-rendered showdowns between these leviathans of a lost world.

Kong's briskly edited ding-dongs ping-pong between the spectacular and the dizzying, choreographed to the relentless beat of Henry Jackman's bombastic orchestral score.

There are fleeting moments of humour to punctuate the carnage, like when a shadowy US official arrives by car in his nation's political capital, which is swarming with Vietnam protesters, and deadpans: "Mark my words, there will never be a more screwed-up time in Washington."

Very droll. Director Vogt-Roberts and his three screenwriters are apparently fans of Jurassic Park and its sequels.

Key sequences pay homage to Steven Spielberg's dino-blockbuster, and Samuel L Jackson, who played the park's chief engineer, recycles one of his iconic lines of dialogue – "Hold onto your butts!" – in the guise of a squadron leader shortly before the gargantuan primate starts swatting helicopters.

Bill Randa (John Goodman) spearheads a secretive government organisation called Monarch, which specialises "in the hunt for massive unidentified terrestrial organisms".

GORILLA WARFARE: Tom Hiddleston and Brie Larson go on the trail of a certain giant ape in Kong: Skull Island

KONG: SKULL ISLAND

(12A) ★★★★★

He leads an exploratory geological survey to a Pacific island, which is encircled by an electrical storm, and sequesters Preston Packard (Jackson) from Da Nang airbase to fly the mission.

Packard corrals his best pilots and loads aircraft with sonic bombs to map the island's topography.

Passengers include tracker James Conrad (Tom Hiddleston), anti-war photojournalist Mason Weaver (Brie Larson), geologist Houston Brooks (Corey Hawkins) and biologist San Lin (Tian Jing).

The sonic weapons rouse a giant ape and the best-laid plans of men of science are smashed to smithereens.

Crash-landed on the island, the survivors encounter a crazed US airman called Hank Marlow (John C Reilly), who has been living wild for 28 years and 11 months since his aircraft was downed during the Second World War.

"Kong is king around here," confirms Marlow and he joins the race against time to reach the extraction point.

Kong: Skull Island angrily flexes its muscles, but punches below its weight.

In moments of calm, character development is given disappointingly short shrift and cast including Oscar winner Larson are squandered in bland roles.

Hiddleston is unconvincing as a former British soldier, hired to lead the otherworldly expedition, and his swaggering hunk's centrepiece action sequence involving a samurai sword and gas mask is superfluous and almost laughable in its execution.

A brief coda, nestled in the end credits, teases the head-on collision of monster franchises in next year's Godzilla: King Of The Monsters and the full-blown rumble Godzilla Vs Kong in summer 2020.

ELLE (18,)

Isabelle Huppert, inset, delivers a tour-de-force Oscar-nominated performance as a rape victim who emerges from her horrific ordeal with a new-found sense of purpose, in Paul Verhoeven's provocative black comedy thriller.

Based on the novel by Philippe Djian, Elle opens controversially in the midst of the assault on video games company director Michele (Huppert) by an unidentified male assailant. Rather than report the attack to the police, Michele washes away the evidence, throws away her clothes and tries to put the violent episode behind her. However, the rapist begins to send her text messages and is clearly watching her based on the contents of his communications. So Michele arms herself with pepper spray and a small axe and resolves to unmask the sick and twisted man who changed her life.

There are plenty of suspicious figures in her life, including some of her employees, her ex-husband Richard (Charles Berling), who has a younger lover, and her handsome neighbour Patrick (Laurent Lafitte). Meanwhile, Elle also has to support her wastrel son Vincent (Jonas Bloquet), who cannot stand up to his abusive, pregnant girlfriend Josie (Alice Isaaz), and her elderly mother Irene (Judith Magre), who is romantically entangled with a young male escort.

CATFIGHT (15)

Anne Heche and Sandra Oh trade physical and verbal blows in Onur Tükel's contemporary black comedy, which satirises the violence percolating beneath the surface of American society. Veronica (Sandra Oh) lives with her husband Stanley (Damian Young) and her son Kip (Giulian Gioiello), whose love of art is repeatedly mocked by his red wine-guzzling mother.

She advises her boy to abandon any thoughts of pursuing a creative career and concentrate on graduating from Yale and making as much money as possible from a job in the financial sector. At a party for Stanley, Veronica encounters her old college nemesis Ashley (Anne Heche), a struggling artist whose violent paintings have been deemed unsellable by her art dealer (Stephen Gevedon).

Tension simmers between Veronica and Ashley, and when the two women find themselves alone in a stairwell at the end of the night, fists and feet fly. One of the women ends up in a coma for two years as a result of her horrific injuries and a bitter rivalry is established that will lead to two further brutal and bruising skirmishes.

DANCER (12A)

Born in Kherson in Ukraine, Sergei Polunin dazzled audiences at an early age and he became the Royal Ballet's youngest principal. Described effusively as the James Dean of the ballet world, Polunin brought the art form into the mainstream with his good looks, power and poise. He was a modern-day rebel with a cause - electrifying performance - and his star power confirmed him as a poster boy for the modern age. However, celebrity came at a terrible price and Polunin was driven to the brink of self-destruction by his stardom. Documentary filmmaker Steven Cantor delves into the psychology of this cultural iconoclast.

Bittersweet tale of life in the slow lane

THE TIME OF THEIR LIVES (12A) ★★★★★

BIRDS of a greying feather squawk together in writer-director Roger Goldby's gently effervescent road movie that reimagines Thelma & Louise 30 years later with dodgy hips, walking sticks and nagging regrets.

Modest in its dramatic ambitions – and largely achieving them – The Time Of Their Lives is a bittersweet valentine to the transformative power of female friendship as seen through the eyes of elderly characters, who are usually relegated to supporting roles.

Goldby's film is clearly targeting older audiences, who flocked to The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel, Philomena and The Lady In The Van. His portrait of sisterhood in twilight years isn't in the same league as those polished pictures and will be a cosier fit for primetime Sunday evening TV than the big screen.

However, small can be beautiful and there are moments in Goldby's script and the performances of lead actresses Joan Collins and Pauline Collins that prove there is life after you start collecting a pension.

The Time Of Their Lives is a sweet and inoffensive tale of reminiscence and awkward reconciliation, which allows the two leads to play to crowd-pleasing type.

Dramatic contrivances and a messy final act cluttered with two dead bodies unpick some of the good work, drizzling positive messages of female empowerment and independence with the sticky syrup of sentimentality.

VIEWERS were left bereft when Mary Berry announced she wouldn't be following The Great British Bake Off to Channel 4.

But fear not, fans – five months on and the Somerset-born cook, whose final GBBO hurrah came in the form of a National Television Award for Best TV Judge earlier this year, is back with a new BBC2 TV series and accompanying cookbook, Mary Berry Everyday, celebrating items which have formed the cornerstone of her cooking over six decades.

"I was thinking about, as the title suggests, the everyday," explains Mary, 81, whose culinary career started, aged 21, with training at Le Cordon Bleu school, France.

"Everyday can be just with the family, it can mean having friends around, it can be a special occasion."

While the six-part series will follow Mary as she travels to Scotland to enjoy the best of their everyday larder; try her hand at bee keeping; and teach her grand-daughter to milk a goat and make cheese, the tie-in tome will document her own kitchen creations (120, to be exact), alongside top tricks and tips.

With everything from hearty and wholesome, to indulgent and easy crowd-pleasers on the menu, it's a catalogue that's sure to please.

"All the recipes are tried out at home," notes the star, who reveals she welcomes constructive criticism from her tight-knit family (Mary often cooks for her husband, Paul Hunnings, and their children and grandchildren).

"The children might say, 'Oh yuck,' or someone may say, 'That takes too long to do,' and those don't go in the book," she confides. "But I make sure there aren't too many of those!"

NO BAKE OFF, NO MATTER - MARY BERRY HAS PLENTY TO KEEP BUSY WITH. SHE TELLS GEMMA DUNN WHY SHE'S ON A MISSION TO CELEBRATE THE EVERYDAY

Mary Berry may have bid farewell to The Great British Bake Off following its channel change, but that's not going to stop her cooking up a storm not to have too many ingredients or pieces of equipment," she adds. "I want to inspire people to cook, and I do think a book is a nice thing to have. I'm very lucky that people trust me and that they have a go."

With more than 70 titles under her belt, it's safe to say people do trust Mary – and fans will be pleased to hear she isn't hanging up her apron strings any time soon.

"I'm not stepping back; I am doing different things," Mary insists, resolute in her choice to keep busy.

"Maybe Mel (Giedroyc), Sue (Perkins) and I will get down to something..." she adds cryptically – the Bake Off co-presenters also decided to quit the popular series when the shock channel switch was announced – though it's unlikely to happen overnight. "I've got a new series on country houses coming up, I'll be doing a bit at Chelsea (Flower Show) I expect, and I'll be doing a new series for 2018," says Mary. "Don't worry, I won't be idle."

Keep busy in the kitchen yourself, with these three recipes from Mary's new book...

■ Mary Berry Everyday continues on BBC2 on Mondays at 8.30pm.

HOW about some new kids on the block? No – not a boy band, but new wines that have arrived just as the weather is beginning to turn and we're thinking of spring round the corner.

If you read this column a couple of weeks ago (thanks for coming back, keep taking the tablets) I told you that Asda had brought out a sparkling wine to catch the attention of prosecco drinkers.

Asda has blended pinot grigio and a grape called glera (which is used to make prosecco) to create its new wine Progrigio (£5, 11% abv).

What do I think of it? I'm making life difficult for myself with a mini scientific experiment.

I was in Asda a couple of days ago and spotted a cava, also for a fiver. I love cava and think it's massively overlooked by fizz lovers.

RAISE A GLASS

I bought Marques Del Norte Cava Vintage Brut (11.5% abv) and challenged myself to a fizz-off with these two wines.

I've marked on bubble strength, aromas, taste and overall impression. Yes. I'm sitting on the settee doing this right now on my own. Call me sad...

PROGRIGIO

■ Bubbles: Well, it has bubbles – 2 marks.

■ Aromas: Apples, grapes, a hint of flowers but also something plasticky – 2 marks

■ Taste: A burst of mouth-watering acidity; fruit flavours disappear very quickly leaving a tinny aftertaste – 1 mark

■ Overall impression: 2 marks

MARQUES DEL NORTE

■ Bubbles: This cava enjoyed being poured – 3 marks

■ Aromas: Cava is made in the same way as champagne which means there are aromas of fresh apples, citrus, and newly baked buttery bread – 3 marks

■ Taste: Apple, a touch of caramel (like the edges of a crispy apple pie) and the juiciness retains some flavour after you've sipped – 3 marks

■ Overall impression: 3 marks
I'll leave you to do the maths.

ALSO IN MY GLASS...

HERE are two more new kids, a white and a red.

Little Pebble (RRP £8, Sainsbury's, 12% abv) is a sauvignon blanc from Marlborough, New Zealand.

The wine is pale lemon and its cool blue label gives it the vibe of a crystal clear mountain stream. The name itself suggests glossy sun-glinted stones as the water tinkles over them.

Never mind the poetry Jane – what of the wine? It was a winner with my pal as we sipped it together. It is fresh and vividly typical of sauvignon blanc – with aromas of tropical fruit and just a touch of nettle with a sprightly citrus flavour.

Abbotts & Delaunay Merlot 2015 (Majestic, £9.99 or £7.99 in a buy six deal, 13% abv) is a wine in one of two new Languedoc ranges from Abbots and Delaunay – Wild Fruits and Wild Flowers.

This merlot is from the fruits range and after a long day I tasted it with a simple fried steak with fried mushrooms and onions.

Merlot, my friend in a glass, came along and soothed me with its blackberry and plum aromas and a flirt with spice; it has soft tannins, juicy acidity and plummy roundness. The following night I sipped on its own, but I much preferred it with food.

INGREDIENTS

For the stew: 2-3tbsp oil, 1kg braising beef (diced), 250g small shallots (peeled and halved), 2 carrots (peeled and thinly sliced), 200g button mushrooms, 50g plain flour, 500ml ale, 150ml beef stock, 2-3tbsp onion marmalade or caramelised onion chutney, 1-2tbsp Worcestershire sauce, A dash of gravy browning (optional), 3 bay leaves, Salt and black pepper, Buttered cabbage, to serve

For the dumplings: 175g self-raising flour (plus extra for dusting), 75g shredded suet (beef or vegetable), 3-4tbsp hot horseradish sauce, 2tbsp chopped parsley, Salt and black pepper

METHOD

1. You will need a 4ltr deep flameproof and ovenproof casserole dish with a lid. Preheat the oven to 160°C/140°C fan/Gas 3.
2. Heat two tablespoons of oil in the dish, add the beef and brown all over. Do this in batches, remove the meat as it is cooked and set aside.
3. Pour in a little more oil if needed and add the shallots, carrots and mushrooms. Fry for four to five minutes.
4. Measure the flour into a bowl and whisk in the ale, slowly to make a smooth paste before adding the rest.

5. Return the meat to the dish, then pour in the flour mixture and stock. Stir over a high heat until the liquid is thickened and bubbling.
6. Add onion marmalade/chutney, Worcestershire sauce, gravy browning and bay leaves. Season, then stir as you bring back up to the boil. Cover with the lid and place in the oven for two to two-and-a-half hours.
7. To make the dumplings, measure the flour and suet into a bowl and season.
8. Gradually stir in 125-150ml of water to make a soft, sticky dough. Transfer to a floured work surface and gently knead until smooth.

9. Sprinkle flour onto baking paper, sit the dough on top and roll into a rectangle about 15x25cm. Spread the top with the horseradish sauce and scatter with the parsley. Roll the dough into a Swiss roll, working from the long side.
10. Chill in the fridge for 45 minutes and slice into eight.
11. When the meat is tender, remove from the oven and increase the temperature to 220°C/200°C fan/Gas 7. Remove the lid and arrange the dumplings, spiral side up and spaced apart, on top of the stew. Cook uncovered in the oven for 25 minutes.
12. Remove the bay leaves and serve piping hot with buttered cabbage.

INGREDIENTS

For the base: 150g digestive biscuits, 60g butter (plus extra for greasing), 1tbsp demerara sugar

For the topping:

200g white chocolate, 1 x 250g tub of full-fat mascarpone cheese, 300ml pouring double cream, 1tsp vanilla extract, 500g fresh raspberries, 1tbsp icing sugar

FEELING FRUITY

WHITE CHOCOLATE AND RASPBERRY CHEESECAKE
(SERVES 6-8)

METHOD

1. You will need a 20cm round spring-form tin with deep sides, and a piping bag fitted with a plain nozzle (optional). Butter the base of the tin and line with a disc of baking paper.
2. Measure the biscuits into a resealable freezer bag and use a rolling pin to crush into fine crumbs, but still with a bit of texture.
3. Heat the butter in a pan over a low heat until just melted. Add the crushed biscuits and sugar and stir until combined. Spoon into the base of the tin and press with the back of a spoon until level. Chill in the fridge while you make the topping.
4. Break the chocolate into a separate bowl, and sit it on top of a pan of simmering water. Stir until melted but not hot, then leave for five to 10 minutes, until cool but still liquid.

5. Meanwhile, tip the mascarpone into a bowl, and mix with a spatula to loosen it. Stir in the cream and vanilla extract until smooth.
6. To make a coulis, place half the raspberries into a food processor. Add icing sugar and whizz until runny, then pour through a sieve to remove the seeds.
7. Pour the melted chocolate into the bowl with the mascarpone mixture and stir to combine. Don't over-mix.
8. Spoon half the white chocolate mixture on to the biscuit base in the tin. Use the handle of a teaspoon to make a few small holes in the white chocolate mixture, pushing right down to the top of the biscuit base.

9. Pour or pipe enough of the coulis into the holes to fill them, setting aside the remaining coulis for decorating the top of the cheesecake. Spoon the remaining white chocolate mixture on top and smooth and level the top. Cover with cling film and chill in the fridge for a minimum of six hours, or ideally overnight.
10. To serve, arrange the rest of the raspberries on top of the cheesecake and drizzle over the remaining coulis. Run a palette knife around the edges of the tin before removing the sides and base, and sit it on a serving plate.

Award-worthy glamour tips

IT'S NO secret it takes hours of preening with an army of stylists, make-up artists and hair pros to get an A-list red carpet-ready. Now, we can't provide your own 'glam squad,' but what we can give you is the inside scoop from the industry's best beauty experts on how to recreate awards season's stunning looks.

EMMA'S 30s GLAM LOOK

"EMMA STONE'S Oscars look was all about 1930s Hollywood glamour," says Rachel Goodwin, NARS director of pro artistry and red carpet.

Rachel started with a matte complexion, adding a rosy glow on the cheeks with a new liquid version of the brand's famous Orgasm blush, which won't be in stores until June.

On the Best Actress winner's lips, Goodwin used Audacious lipstick in Mona, which has lead to a total sell-out of the deep red shade - but don't worry, NARS is rushing to get it back on shelves in April.

AMY'S SLEEK TWIST

KEN O'ROURKE, brand ambassador for Charles Worthington, used a 'rope braiding' technique to style Amy Adams' auburn locks for the Baftas.

To recreate the look, prep hair with Blow Dry Primer, then pull it back into a sleek ponytail at the crown and secure with elastic. Split the ponytail into two, twist the hair of one section in on itself, then twist both sections together and secure with another elastic.

Secure the 'twisted rope' with grips all the way down to the nape of the neck, then finish with a generous spritz of All Over Gloss Spray.

HOLLY'S HOT LIPS

MATCHING your outfit with your lippy doesn't always work, but Holly Willoughby's pink pout and pastel dress combo at the National Television Awards was spot on.

According to Holly's make-up artist Patsy O'Neill, the mid-pink shade is Tulip Tide from Burt's Bees' new range, which combines creamy colour with the moisturising effects of a balm.

EMMA'S PALE NAILS

CLUTCHING a microphone on stage all night, Brit Awards presenter Emma Willis had to make sure her nails were nothing short of flawless.

Celebrity manicurist Kimberley Nkosi gave Emma a gel manicure the night before, using Orly Head in the Clouds, a pale pink. If you haven't got a UV lamp, the new shade is also available as a lacquer.

TARAJI'S GORGEOUS GLOW

WITH her velvet dress slit to the thigh, US actress Taraji P Henson wanted to make sure her pins were looking perfect on Oscars night, reveals St Tropez's Ashunta Sheriff.

Ashunta enhanced Taraji's natural complexion by using a mitt to sweep Self Tan Luxe Dry Oil over the body, following with Instant Tan Finishing Gloss on the arms, legs and décolletage.

IS CONFIDENCE BOOST BEHIND SURGERY FALL?

THE number of cosmetic surgery procedures carried out in the UK fell by 40% in 2016, the first drop after nearly 10 years of growth, according to figures released by the British Association of Aesthetic Plastic Surgeons.

The organisation cited financial pressures as the reason, but body positive activists believe a new wave of relatable social media stars, like model Iskra Lawrence, are encouraging women to accept their bodies rather than wanting to change them.

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

Would you tackle this former royal address?

You may recognise this house. It's the one that rugby player Mike Tindall was photographed leaving with his wife Zara Phillips in 2012 after he had been dropped from the England squad and fined £25,000 following his drunken antics in a New Zealand bar.

At the time the couple were described as 'stone-faced' as they left the property, possibly because Tindall was filmed with his ex-girlfriend at the famously debauched bar in Queenstown.

The antics took place while the team were playing the 2011 World Cup, during which they performed poorly, losing to France in the quarter finals.

The couple moved out of their Cheltenham property in 2013 after selling the white-stuccoed house for £1.2 million to the boss of clothing retailer Superdry.

The couple then moved to a home within the estate of her mother, Princess Anne, at nearby Gatcombe Park.

Mike Tindall retired from rugby in 2014 and now works in sponsorship and corporate hospitality while she continues her equestrian sporting career.

Their former home is for sale again, this time at £1.695 million. It's a Grade II listed Regency property called Hallery House.

The 1823-built property has seven bedrooms, four bathrooms, a two-columned covered portico, floor-to-ceiling sash windows, high ceilings and a Danish-style minimalist kitchen including polished concrete worktops and Gaggenau appliances.

The property also has a gym, three receptions rooms, cinema room and a cantilevered staircase linking the different levels.

More information from www.knightfrank.co.uk or call 01242 246959.

HOT

Edwardian pile's track record

ROSKROW Manor looks like one of those sleepy country mansions that occasionally grace estate agents' brochures but that otherwise pass from one family to another without being remarked upon.

Not so this property, which has a history that can be traced back to the Domesday Book, and that later enjoyed connections to both Georgian royalty, an 18th century artist and that, it is claimed, was once haunted.

The manor house was largely rebuilt in 1910 as an Edwardian country pile with a cottage and an annexe. And then the property's history became even more interesting.

During the 1950s it was turned into a zoo in everything but name including a resident giraffe and lion.

But fauna of a different kind then moved in. Party animal, legendary F1 driver and womaniser James Hunt lived in its cottage for an extended period at the height of his career during the mid-to-late 1970s, its owners claim.

In 1976, Hunt won the Formula One World Championship for the McLaren racing team, which propelled him to global stardom. Sadly, it was an achievement that he was not able to repeat and he retired from racing in 1979 and died in 1993 aged just 45 years old.

Roskrow Manor, which more recently has been the HQ of a successful horse breeder, is near Falmouth in Cornwall and has seven bedrooms, a tennis court, a four-car garage and three acres of land. It for sale with Savills Cornwall (01872 243 200) for £1.65 million.

Iron Lady's high-rise home

THE day that Margaret Thatcher decided to pursue her career in politics is one that many regret but others celebrate even now, nearly four years after her death.

Thatcher was Prime Minister for more than a decade, leader of the Conservative Party for 13 years and presided over some of the UK's most tumultuous recent history.

This included the Falklands War, a much-maligned 'poll tax' as well as the miners' strike, to name a few.

But all of these events could have been handled very differently if she'd decided not to put herself forward as a parliamentary candidate during the early 1950s, and subsequently become an MP in 1959.

It's a decision she took while living in this sixth-floor, two-bedroom apartment in London's Chelsea.

The flat is within an Art Deco apartment block off the King's Road called Swan Court, which at the time she lived in with her husband Denis and twins Carol and Mark.

Swan Court was built during the 1930s and was originally meant for bachelors, although the flats eventually appealed to a much wider audience including young families such as the Thatchers.

The wallpaper that she was once photographed applying to its wall has long gone, and agent Edward Thomson of Strutt & Parker (07917 067469) says the property now needs a complete refurbishment.

It's on the market for £1.235 million but has a very short lease, which could cost approximately £600,000 to extend.

INTERIORS >with Chris Read

The Hank table lamp has a glossy metal shade and base to match. And the finish? It has to be glossy. So 70s. From Made.com

It's orange, squared off and funky. Those straight arms means you can get this into a small space and still have a big seating area. The Finn Sofa, from Living it Up

Back to the Seventies

Who remembers loons, the split up of The Beatles, the all-new decimal currency, glam rock and long curly hair (and that was just the men)?

Interior design in the 1970s was about bold shapes: geometrics, simplified flowers and circles; strong colours offset with dark neutrals; shag-pile carpet and pop art prints. And yes, indeed, Seventies style is back! Before you groan, remember that was everyone's response when the mid-century vintage trend started – it was associated with post-war austerity and no one who had lived through it wanted to see it again. Now we can't get enough of it – 50s style has become ubiquitous, and has entirely taken over the neutral minimalism of the early Naughties. So yes it's time for a change. The change in the copyright rules that means we will no longer be able to buy cheap copies of the mid-century design classics, especially Eames style chairs, and that will hasten the shift.

So how to add a little Seventies style to your home? The key is not to go overboard. So you might want to use vintage furniture and some bold colours and shapes, but keep the back drop neutral and light, rather than cladding your walls and ceilings in wood as well. If you like the wood look, great for adding warmth, use it on walls or ceilings only, not both.

Mid-century vintage furniture still works a treat with this trend, so no need to throw anything out. Update it instantly by adding a Seventies style lamp and a graphic poster. If you want to go further, a sofa with straight sides and a buttoned back, rather like an updated Chesterfield, will add the right vibe (and I use the word deliberately!). The Finn sofa by Living it Up is bang on trend. And bring in the Seventies gold... how about a hanging chair in the corner of a room? Just make sure you attach it to a beam.

Colours are often the way to signpost a style, even if you don't use the shapes. Brown, orange or a dull lime green work well here, as does turquoise, bright yellow, red, strong blue. Have I left any out? Pink, of course, and who could forget purple? But brown and orange are the signature colours and used singly or together, give an instant vintage feel. Just add a lot of white or pale, pale grey to stop it overwhelming the space.

One of the 'go-to' brands for this style is Orla Kiely, who has been inspired by this era for some time now – a single item with her signature prints will add the correct touch, particularly the cushion or kitchen ware. The little planter shown here is a charming way of adding the naive style florals that peppered the decade. If you prefer undecorated, I love the stoneware set from Printer + Taylor – all the style without any of the shouting!

Another route to go is some Seventies-style lighting – think rounded, bulbous shapes, use of copper and, at the other end of the scale, plastics and resins. All utterly redolent of the Seventies.

As we moved away from post-war austerity, Hollywood glamour began to re-emerge. This time with luxurious finishes and good quality craftsmanship, so however far you dip your toes into the Seventies trend, make sure you embrace this aspect. Otherwise, Austin Powers style bar in the living room, anyone?

The season of joyful hope

COLOUR: spring flowers herald the arrival of the new season

WE ARE now officially in the period of meteorological spring and before long we will reach astronomical spring which commences on 20 March. Whichever way you look at it, we are on the turn and the most exiting of seasons is just about upon us.

Why do most people come alive in spring? It marks the season of new life. Lambs, baby birds, puppies, kittens and more. They might not all appear immediately but chances are they are on the way! There's a huge stirring in the garden too. It's amazing how plants respond to the increasing light levels and the chances are that you can already see plenty of daffodils, crocuses and the last show of snowdrops, hellebores, winter aconites and more.

There are marvellous Magnolias bursting forth. Indeed, many have already opened their pink and white flowers. Down in Cornwall it is, in fact, the blooming of Magnolias that marks the true arrival of spring. Head gardeners working within the Great Gardens of Cornwall Group all record their Magnolia progress and once seven Magnolia campbellii have 50 or more open blooms, spring is declared in England. The process is now being extended across the whole of England with the Great Garden Watch through the RHS.

This is the season when garden lovers skip around with uplifted spirits, happy to be outdoors for longer periods.

Allotmenters are wielding their barrows and busy in their greenhouses sowing tomato seeds, pricking out seedlings and 'growing on'. Shallots and onion sets can go in now. Potatoes can be chitted, planted and earthed up and cucumbers, peppers, chillies and aubergines can be germinated.

This is a perfect time to prepare hanging baskets too.

The first roses of spring: Primula

DOESN'T everyone love a primrose? 'Prima rosa' translates as first rose and these beautiful plants epitomise early spring.

A pioneer of early plant breeding was one Florence Bellis (1906-1987) who influenced the breeding of primula by using her index finger to transfer pollen between plants. She hybridised these beautiful plants and developed more colourful strains.

Primula are now available in blues, purples, reds, pinks, yellows creams, browns, oranges, ginger and stripes. They love early spring sun, moist but well-drained soil and summer shade.

Plant them on banks, near ditches and tucked under shrubs – and of course they are very happy in pots that can be moved in summer to prevent them drying out.

They can bring a splash of colour to places that greenery doesn't reach. It is, of course, too early for them to go outside but they can be planted up and seeds of annuals such as lobelia, bidens and petunias such as the amazing 'million bells' can be sown. Keep them protected until at least May.

It's also the perfect time to put up nest boxes and every single one is valuable. Choose a sheltered site, protected from strong winds and direct sunlight and angle them downwards to shield against rain.

There are many once-common garden birds such as sparrows and starlings that need a bit of help from a conservation point of view. Bear in mind that different types of box suit certain species. Robins and pied wagtails, for examples like boxes with a slot or open front whilst tits, sparrows and wrens like little holes. There are cup-shaped nests designed to fit under house eaves to suit house martins and swallows, and larger boxes for owls.

Perfectplants.co.uk is an on-line retailer supplying quality plants – many of which are home-grown, together with garden essentials, tools and equipment, garden furniture, ornamental goods for the home and garden gifts.

NEW LIFE: spring is not all about hard work in the garden, it is the time for kittens and lambs too.

A GOOD SIGN: chances are you can already see plenty of crocuses

By Patrick James

It may be called a MINI, but the latest Countryman from BMW, which has just gone on sale and is now a firm challenger in the compact SUV/crossover market is anything but mini.

Now, even bigger than its immediate predecessor, the interior is the best yet. It has a real quality feel while still retaining many of the retro features of the original BMW-launched MINI, with its huge dinner-plate sized central display panel and array of rocker switches.

It is longer, taller and wider and even if the increase is not huge, it does feel bigger and features a new range of petrol and diesel engines.

It certainly looks the crossover part with its high stance off the road, muscular look with integrated roofbars and flared wheelarches, eye-catching alloys, smart elliptical headlights and a honeycomb grille.

While not always to everyone's taste, the brand usually attracts attention when parked up.

The interior has an executive feel to fixtures and fitting and quality soft touch finish, while is the purple ambient lighting throughout the car adds a classy touch.

In fact the use of lighting is a key feature with the changing colours on the central control screen depending on what driving mode you are in and the clever puddle lights which reflect the winged logo onto the ground in the dark.

There are other clever options including picnic bench with a foldout loading sill cushion on the luggage compartment lid for outdoor use and, for the first time, touchscreen to the central console.

As ever, it is not cheap, but high residuals mean you will always get a fair chunk of your money back when selling.

Priced from £22,465, the four-wheel drive automatic driven here will set you back nearly £30,000, but there is a good level of standard kit, which includes satellite navigation, radar and parking sensors, Bluetooth and emergency e-call.

The two-litre diesel tested here proved lively, refined, and economical, with a claimed economy of 57.6mpg and emissions of 129g/km.

Mated to the eight-speed Steptronic automatic gearbox, it slips effortlessly through the gears to deliver excellent acceleration. It is barely audible on the motorway, although the high stance of the car means there is wind noise and some tyre rumble on lesser roads.

The interior dash is dominated by the circular console which houses navigation and multi-media system, but controls can still be operated from the control dial between the two front seats.

There are five full-sized seats and the extra length means extra rear seat legroom, while the rear bench seat slides to provide extra stowage space. The leather upholstery in this model has neat sporty stitching and is firm and comfortable and fully adjustable, while headroom is good and there is good all round vision.

There is never going to be a fantastic amount of space in the boot, but 450 litres is decent, which increases dramatically when the split rear seats are folded to 1,390 litres. The boot is opened remotely with the key or by kicking underneath to trigger a sensor for hands-free opening.

Minis have always been famed for their handling and for a tall car it handles well. The four wheel drive gives added confidence when cornering in the wet with ALL4 drive capable of delivering all the drive to either axle.

The steering is direct, almost heavy, but precise. Acceleration is also good, although the Cooper S badging is a bit over the top in terms of real performance.

It hits 60mph in just over seven seconds and for a more lively drive, switch to Sport mode and paddle gearchange, which sharpens up engine and suspension settings, while delivering those pleasing colour changes to the central control panel.

A crossover it may be, but it is a class act that delivers a satisfying driving experience, but offers that oh-so-important practicality.

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20
Do you really want what you are asking for? Or are you making demands to bring attention to the fact that no one has been making a fuss of you the last few days? I don't think you really know. From Tuesday, you see where your time is best spent and you start to see where meaning in life can be found. Fellow Aries like to a better home life. Ring now to talk about the younger generation.

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21
If you don't give your close ones the space they are asking for, then they are just going to shut you out completely. Revealing what you really want from your career to those who can help you can see you move mountains this week. Attention you give to family you have not seen much of can do much for your relationship with them, both now and in the future. Ring now for my full forecast.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21
The planet Venus helps you to get back your confidence in relationships and you no longer worry about hurting other's feelings by admitting what you want. Instead, you start to open up to you. Your house of work shows changes are coming and this is likely to be reflected in the way you admit that aspects of your job are making you unhappy. Ring now to talk past relationships.

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22
The planets throw you into the limelight. You find yourself having to ask questions you would rather have ignored. Just be honest and be you for positive results. Those who have been playing their cards close to their chest are at last willing to open up and you start to feel less paranoid that it was you who was making all the mistakes. Ring me so I can explain strange messages you've received.

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23
I am really excited for you Leo, as you will no longer have to worry about others lying to you. The stars hand you the gift of clear vision and you will be able to see with ease who has been telling you tall stories and who has been supporting you behind closed doors. A great week to focus on new career directions. Ring now to hear how a few of you may be resigning this month for the right reasons.

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22
You never were the shy one in the corner were you Virgo? No matter how much you claimed to be. Over the coming days you get the information you need to move forward and away from a certain relationship. Know that the decisions you make will be the right ones and that any friendships you end will be for the best. Ring now to hear why it's worth sticking to plans Friday.

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23
There are several new directions your personal life can take, but just make sure that you are not being too heavily influenced by those who have something to gain should you take their 'words of wisdom'. Travel plans which are laid at this time prove exciting and show you how much more enjoyable life is when you keep eyes on the future, not the past. Ring now to reveal more.

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21
You are not being given all the facts about what is going on in your career. It would be in your best interests to slow your pace and get more information and figures, especially before you sign anything which could prove life changing or a major commitment. Virgos and Capricorns bring out your naughty side. Ring now to find out why it's worth returning all phone calls this week.

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20
Don't be angry at a close one for speaking their mind over the last few weeks. You must respect them for trying to make a difference to your life and doing so fearlessly. Some form of compromise is needed in love and work. Respect will follow. Perhaps even money. Call me for your full weekly roundup.

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20
Self confidence is the key to you getting the most from this week. Indeed, it is only by believing in what you want that it will become a reality. Going solo in career projects is what is best for some of your sign. Don't be afraid, as by believing you can achieve, you will. Mars makes you more sensitive than you should be in relationship issues on Friday. Ring now for improved tactics.

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19
Forgiveness can help you find inner peace. If you start to forgive yourself or others then the peace in your heart will follow. Many of your sign will be finding connections with strangers or those you are introduced to for the first time by friends. Life and love start to get more than a little interesting. Ring now to hear why it's worth travelling out of your way for job opportunities in March.

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20
Do you see how far you've come since this time last year Pisces? I do, and I have to say I am more than a little proud. You would be too if you would stop judging yourself by unfair standards. Trouble in the home or with those who are supposed to help maintain it can only be solved by repetitive requests for help this week. Ring now to hear why time and space is best given to younger faces.

They will train with the elite junior county squad with high level coaches and will have the opportunity to be selected to represent Essex in future regional competitions.

Head girls' development coach

"It is great news for Harlow Gymnastics as this is the largest group ever to qualify from the club."

VICTORY: Kai Boggan wins in Abu Dhabi

Boggan basks in Abu Dhabi golden glory

THE Brownlee brothers had better watch their backs if the stunning form of young Harlow triathlete Kai Boggan is anything to go by.

Kai, aged 14 and a Year 9 student at Passmores, has just returned home from the first race in ITU World Championships series in Abu Dhabi with a gold medal hanging around his neck.

Basking in the impressive surroundings of the Yas Marina course, the talented teenager took the junior triathlon field by storm.

In a strong line-up of 56 young athletes representing more than 20 countries including Australia, Germany and the USA, Kai took the plunge for the first discipline – a 400m swim – in the marina which backs onto the F1 race track.

He exited the water in an impressive sixth place, and made up a couple of places in transition before starting the 10k bike ride around the F1 track.

This is Kai's strongest discipline, and he turned on the style as he rode his bike down the pit straight around the three laps of the track, to come back into transition first with a handsome 20 second lead.

With a swift transition Kai set off on the 2.5k run and didn't let up despite the 32 degree heat.

He ran his heart out to lead all the way to the finish to take gold by a massive 17 seconds, completing the race in a very impressive time of 33min 08sec.

Kai's proud parents were on hand to watch, as was one of his coaches, Brett Savage, of Roding Valley Tri Club, who raced the Olympic distance the next day.

He completed the 1500m swim, 40k bike and 10k run in a great time of 2hr 23min to take 16th in his age group.

Savage said: "Kai was really focused. He didn't just inspire the younger ones but inspired me too when I did the Olympic distance triathlon the next day."

Kai is now getting ready for the start on the domestic triathlon season which starts this Sunday.

His running coach, John Stow, of Woodford Green and Essex Ladies, said: "Massive congratulations to Kai on a brilliant gold.

"He is a massive inspiration to all of our younger athletes."

Knight: 'We didn't deserve anything'

Harlow dealt another blow to promotion hopes

HARLOW Town have been leapfrogged in the Ryman Premier by Essex rivals Billericay Town, after they suffered a 2-0 defeat in a match which saw former England international and West Ham star Paul Konchesky grace the Harlow Arena.

All the pre-match build up had been about Billericay chairman Glenn Tamplin taking over from Craig Edwards as first team manager and the signing of Konchesky, but Danny Chapman's side were focused on trying to get back on track after a recent blip in form.

However, things didn't go to plan and Hawks assistant manager Glenn Knight revealed that although the Billericay "circus" didn't upset their preparations, he felt Harlow didn't deserve a result based on their performance.

"Of course we are disappointed to lose the match," said Knight. "We are disappointed every match that we lose.

"It was one of those games where, although I can't say that we deserved anything from the match, if we'd have performed to the levels that we know we can, we would have caused Billericay lots more problems than we actually did.

"It was all about Billericay in the build-up and although you don't really want things like that disturbing our preparation, you just have to prepare for the game like it's any other game.

"At the moment, the circus at Billericay is great for the league and I'm certainly enjoying it.

"When someone starts putting loads of money into a club and signing big name players, I find it interesting but, as an opposition team, they are just 11 players on a pitch that we want to beat regardless of where they've come from, who they've played for or how much money they're earning.

"We spoke to the boys at half-time and knew that the second goal was going to be important and if we'd have got it, I could have seen us kicking on and getting something from the game.

"Unfortunately, they got it and it was a great strike and from then on, at 2-0 down, it was always going to be hard for us.

Important

"We got promoted last season and I feel like we have definitely held our own in this division which is really good for us.

"Now though, it is important for us to kick on and try and finish as high up the league as possible."

The Hawks defence were under pressure throughout the first half and found themselves behind when Billericay winger Mekhi McLeod's cross was headed into the top corner by Adam Cunningham.

Billy Bricknell turned and firing home on 60 minutes to double his side's lead.

Harlow tried to fight back late in the match, but Mario Noto's shot from distance was held easily by Alan Julian in the Billericay goal and Ibrahim Sonko deflected a Harlow corner over the bar from close range.

■ BOTH Khale da Costa and Lawrence Yiga have left the Hawks.

After joining Harlow in October, da Costa scored four goals in his first six games. He went on to make 24 appearances, netting six more goals.

However, he has found it hard to retain a place in the starting line-up since the turn of the year, and has left in search of regular first team football.

Yiga has been released due to internal misconduct, with the Hawks saying they will make no further statement on the issue.
